OVERVIEW

Hashem commands Moshe to build a mishkan (sanctuary) and supplies him with detailed instructions. Bnei Yisrael are asked to contribute precious metals and stones, fabrics, skins, oil and spices. In the Mishkan's outer courtyard is an altar for the burnt offerings and a laver for washing. The Tent of Meeting is divided by a curtain into two chambers. The outer chamber is accessible only to the kohanim, the descendants of Aharon. This contains the table of showbreads, the menorah, and the golden incense altar. The innermost chamber, the Holy of Holies, may be entered only by the kohen gadol, and only once a year, on Yom Kippur. Here is the ark that held the Ten Commandments inscribed on the two tablets of stone which Hashem gave to the Jewish nation on Mount Sinai. All of the utensils and vessels, as well as the construction of the mishkan, are described in extraordinary detail.

THE SEQUENCE OF PARSHIYOS: FIRST MISHPATIM, THEN TERUMA

Parshas Teruma follows on the heels of Parshas Mishpatim, but they are really two very different types of parshiyos. Mishpatim is a parsha filled with monetary laws -- virtually all of Bava Kama and Bava Metzia originate from Parshas Mishpatim. Parshas Teruma is a portion dealing with laws between man and G-d. It is the portion dealing with the building of the Beis HaMikdash, a portion dealing with sacrificial offerings. On the surface these would appear to be two totally distinct parshiyos. Yet, the Pardes Yosef writes, it is for a specific reason that the Torah wrote Parshas Teruma right after Parshas Mishpatim. The Torah wants us to know that when there is a Mitzvah to donate one's money to a Beis HaMikdash or to a shul ("And you shall take for Me an offering..." [Shmos 25:2]) we need to be sure where that money is coming from. The Torah wants us to know that there is a section called Mishpatim: There is a section dealing with theft and there is a section dealing with the prohibition of taking interest on a loan. The Torah wants us to make sure that the money we are donating comes from sources which are legal and above board (Kosher vYosher). The Torah is not interested in a person donating money that was acquired illegally. There is an interesting Maharsha [Ketubot 67], which decries and criticizes stealing and then giving from that money to charity:

"Many in this generation gather their wealth through measures which are without faith in G-d and which involve the desecration of G-d's name (Chillul HaShem) like by stealing from idolaters. Afterwards, they donate this money (for communal purposes) to get annual honors for themselves so that they will be blessed by the community (get a special "Mi SheBerach"). This is nothing other than a Mitzvah that comes by way of a sin (mitzvah ha'baah b'aveirah). Such money will not last."

This, says Pardes Yosef, is the reason that Parshas Mishpatim comes before Parshas Teruma. We need to know about the prohibitions of theft and corruption, and Ribbis, and stealing from Jew and Gentile alike. Only then can we talk about making a long term pledge
